The Italian Language Schools for Foreigners are located in the historical centres of Rome, Florence, Bologna, Milan and Turin, five of Italy's best-loved cities. They have central and strategic locations: easy to reach by public transport and close to the most important tourist attractions of Italy's artistic and cultural heritage.

The Italian Language Schools for Foreigners of the Dante Alighieri Society offer education in the Italian language and culture through a wide range of courses that meet the most varied needs of the vast number of foreign students for whom they are targeted. The language courses are based on the 6 levels envisaged by the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR) from A1 to C2.

In our schools through these courses, Italian is taught in an active and useful way for effective integration in the social, professional or academic context. Our courses are based on an integrated method geared towards building knowledge and developing skills with the students in order to use the language correctly, effectively and appropriately.

Our courses differ in duration, number of hours, weekly frequency and objectives. The course lesson duration is 50 minutes. Before the beginning of the course all students are expected to take a placement test to assess their linguistic level.

At the end of each course students will receive a certificate of attendance corresponding to the course level attended, called ADA certificate (Dante Alighieri Certificate).

Come and study the Italian language at our schools, we look forward to seeing you!

Italian, but not just in the classroom

Our offer includes the following educational and cultural activities:

- cultural visits to places of artistic interest
- activities to immerse students in authentic Italian life in everyday situations such as at the market, at a café or restaurant, in shops, etc., in which students are involved in practical tasks to be carried out.
